On the right, there is a faint illustration of a large, elongated blimp or airship with a propeller at the rear. The title 'THE BATTLE OF NEIGHBORHOODS' is centered in large, bold, black capital letters.

EDUARDO MOLINA RIBEIRO

INTRODUCTION

- Let us explore the 'Centro Histórico de Porto Alegre' and find the available places where you can drink coffee and a beer.

DATA

- A description of the data: the data used to solve this problem is geolocation data collected from FourSquare. Adequate explanation and discussion, with examples, of the data is the following. Data is a single dataframe, containing at least a location of the cafeteria/bar. Explanation of the location data is a standard tuple (lat, lng), where lat stands for latitude and lng for longitude. Example of the data used in analysis is shown in table 1.
- Data will be used in the following way: by knowing the locations of already existings cafes/bares. It is possible to apply many techniques of unsupervised learning technique, but the kernel density estimation (KDE) will be used to looking for the área of influence of the current cafes/bares.

METHODOLOGY

- A density estimation was used to measure the proximity of the cafés and bares, Folium was used to print and visualize the map. Most data were picked using Foursquare API, the positions of bares and cafeterias are in Figure 2, the blue circles are the cafeterias and the green one are the bares. Data used to test the kernel was generated manually using some coordinates from Porto Alegre. It is possible to see the generated test data in Figure 3.

METHODOLOGY

RESULTS

- Looking the Figure 5, you can take some assumption. If you want to go near the 'Rio Guaiba' probably you will not find a good spot to have a happy hour. Going through 'Borges de Medeiros' you will find a few bares and cafeterias, because in this region are many companies.

DISCUSSION

If you want to get a beer or a coffee in 'Centro Histórico', you should look at region near 'Andradas' or near 'Cidade Baixa', as we can see in Figure 5 these part of the map concentrate the most bar/cafeaterias. These recommendations must be previously evaluated, many places do not have their Foursquare updated and containing useful tips.

CONCLUSIONS

- If you do not know Porto Alegre and want to go out to visit some places, take a drink or maybe eat something, it is very recommended to visit 'Centro Histórico'. In this region you can find anything you want.
